Farr Carried County

Democratic State Senator Fred Farr of Carmel was defeated Tuesday in his bid for re-election in the 17th Senatorial District by Republican Senator Donald L. Grunsky of Watsonville who garnered 74,544 votes against Farr's 55,512. However, Farr carried Monterey County, which he has represented in the state senate for 11 years, by a 31,623 to 26,916 vote. Because of reapportionment, the new senatorial district also included Santa Cruz, San Benito and San Luis Obispo counties, all of which favored Grunsky.

Farr aso carried the Monterey Peninsula where he tallied 17,188 votes to Grunsky's 10,881. In Carmel, Farr's fellow citizens gave him 1,700 votes to 1,265 for his opponent. Point Lobos supported Farr by a vote of 933 to 827. Carmel Valley voted 1,353 to 1,014 for Farr. The only vote in the Carmel area which did not support Farr was in Pebble Beach where Grunsky gained 1,084 votes to Farr's 854.

Republican Burt L. Talcott was returned to the House of Representatives in the 12th Congressional District. Alan G. Pattee was re-elected to the California Assembly by Monterey County voters.

Singularly, Proposition 3, the open space legislation authored by Senator Farr, was approved by California voters with 2,535,692 Yes votes to 1,996,943 No tallies. Monterey County gave a greater than two to one favorable margin to this proposition. The Monterey Peninsula supported it by a three to one vote.

Bob McCurdy Makes His Own Spear Guns

Highway Patrolman Bob McCurdy Scuba Dives For Sport, Relaxation

"We were ready to come in when I saw it—a great white shark, about 14 feet long—one of the largest I've ever seen. It circled us twice, then moved in for the kill. My fellow diver held his spear gun forward to ward off the shark. At the last moment, it veered to the right and swam away," said Robert McCurdy, president of the Monterey Sun Fish Club, the Monterey Peninsula scuba diving club.

"Sharks are unpredictable," he continued. "A tame shark in California may be a man-eater in New Zealand or the Caribbean. But sharks are not too great a danger for the skin diver. In 1963, for example, 14 people in the entire world were killed by sharks, but 5,000 Californians were killed by automobiles."

McCurdy enjoys free diving, without a tank, in addition to scuba diving. His preference is sport fishing for halibut. He held the world's record for two days, by spearing a 52 pound, four foot halibut. But a few days later, the former champion speared a 56 pounder, winning back his record.

When asked how frequently he dives, McCurdy said, "In the summer, I scuba dive seven days a week, sometimes staying in the water as much as eight and nine hours at a time." During the winter, he dives at least two or three times a week.

During vacations—preferably in the winter—he and a number of his friends like to head for Mexican waters. In the winter, the ocean has finished reseeding itself; the plants and animals have finished spawning; and the water is crystal clear. "You can see for

FARR MOBILE OFFICE CATCHES ON FIRE

Senator Fred Farr's mobile office suddenly caught fire yesterday afternoon while parked near his home on Carmelo between Ninth and Tenth street. The Carmel Fire Department extinguished the fire in the red, white and blue Ford van. It was caused by someone having placed hot fireplace ashes in a cardboard carton in the street near the van.

WEATHER

A nice week end with temperature highs near 70 and nightly lows about 42, gentle winds. 30% chance of rain later.

Old Capitol Site Plans Presented

by Allman Cook

Del Monte Properties Company plans for the Old Capitol Site just off Highway One at the foot of Carmel Hill were presented to the Monterey City Planning Commission Wednesday. This site is one mile long and one-half mile wide. The new freeway borders it and nearby are the Del Monte Shopping Center, the Woodland Retirement Community and Monterey Peninsula College.

The plans were developed by Burde, Shaw and Associates with the cooperation of the construction and planning department of Del Monte Properties headed by Al Shattuck and Chief Engineer Matt Corrigan.

Arnot Again Heads Sanitary District

Officers of the Carmel Sanitary District were unanimously re-elected Tuesday evening at the board of directors' annual meeting. For the coming two years, Harold C. Arnot will continue as president and Harry Hilbert as secretary. Other members of the board are James B. Pruitt, Willis Shepard, J. Wentworth Lewis and H. R. Fonseca. Shelburn Robison remains as legal counsel.

Before the business meeting, members of the board inspected the sanitary district treatment plant west of Carmel River bridge with Max Drewien, superintendent, and his assistant, Mike Paredes, showing them around.

Notice was received by the board from Kennedy Engineers that the interim trunk sewer line extending two and one-half miles up Carmel Valley is completed. This line will service Del Mesa Carmel, Middle School and the new Community Church of the Monterey Peninsula.

Council Employs Sunset Manager

City council action ranged last night from authorizing a $300,000 tax interim loan and $25,272 for payment of lease purchase equipment agreements to gratefully accepting a gift of a piece of beach property. A manager for Sunset Center was hired, also a paid captain for the fire department, but employment of a planning director was postponed one month. A request for action on a "public nuisance" created by the P.G. & E. was referred to the city attorney, also reconsideration of an ordinance freeing the council from consideration of tree trimming requests.

The matter of housing the Girl Scouts at Sunset Center will be considered by a joint committee of the council and Sunset Commission and another committee of city officials and representatives of various organizations will delve into Carmel's parking problem, the council decided.

The tax interim loan to cover cost of the city's new police station and corporation yard facility now under construction at Junipero and Fourth was approved for execution with Wells Fargo Bank at a 4.95 percent rate of interest. The San Francisco legal firm of Orrick, Dahlquist, Herrington and Sutcliffe, authorities on municipal financing, approved the borrowing of $300,000, to be paid from anticipated city tax revenue in the current fiscal year, as strictly in conformity with the constitution and laws of the State of California. The temporary note will mature on June 30, 1967. Councilmen William Sefton and Gunnar Norberg abstained from voting on this matter. The latter stated he did so because he maintains the Phase I civic center construction should have been submitted to the voters in a bond election.

The lease purchase expenditures covered payment, during the 1966-67 fiscal year, of $10,777.78 for the department of public works' new street grader, also $14,494.48 for the initial payment, and another due in June, on the city's new fire truck. The lease purchase agreement will be executed with the Carmel branch of the Bank of America. Both sums were included in the city's 1966-67 budget.

GIFT OF BEACH LAND

Through the generosity of Mrs. Mildred Dillon, the last piece of Carmel beach in private ownership will become city property. It is a small wedge-shaped area between Santa Lucia and Martin Way. Carmel will now own all its beach from the Pebble Beach boundary to the Van Loben Sels land on Carmel Point. Mrs. Dillon retained ownership of the bank on the west side of Scenic fronting her property.

Steps will be taken to annex the new property to the city. Referred to the planning commission, last night, was the request of William Harold Oliver to annex his lot, in the Mission Tract at the southeast corner of Santa Lucia and Monte Verde, to the city.

Councilman Eben Whittlesey expressed the opinion that such "piecemeal" annexation was not desirable. Contrary opinions were expressed by Councilman Norberg and Mayor Steve Grant.

"We should encourage small gifts, even one lot," the latter stated.

SUNSET MANAGER

On the recommendation of the Sunset Commission, the council approved hiring Cole Weston as manager of Sunset Center, effective December 1, at a salary of $674 a month. He will also be responsible for stage management at the Forest Theater.

The Sunset Commission report stated that this position was needed to develop a program for the use of all Sunset Center facilities with the ultimate goal of making the city's municipal cultural and community center self-supporting. Mr. Weston's salary will be paid from funds budgeted for stage management and a Sunset feasibility study. He will be responsible for purchasing, budget control, maintenance and repair, studies, publicity, promotion of use of the Sunset facility and parking under the direction of the city administrator in accordance with city council policies and pleasure.

'The Little Foxes' Surpasses Previous Successes At Studio

by Duke Everts

A fine old standard, "The Little Foxes" by Lillian Hellman, opened last Friday night at the Studio Theatre and Restaurant in Carmel. With a stellar cast of some of the better known talent on the Peninsula, it surpassed anything that we have reviewed so far this year. We didn't think it possible for an amateur theatre in an area as small as this to be able consistently to present such good entertainment.

With expert coordination and cooperation between everyone onstage—some little theatre opening nights seem as though the actors have just met for the first time—plus a superb set, excellent lighting, very fine directing and little uneasiness on the part of the players, this production is something to remember. Perhaps the cast was even better than it would have been because of the fact that it had to play to a very rude, ribald and disorderly group of first nighters.

Betty Fowlston as Regina Giddens proved once more that she is as good a dramatic actress as she is a gifted comedienne. As the greediest and grubbingest of what is a greedy, grubbing Southern family in the early 1900s, she was absolutely flawless. No matter what role Mrs. Fowlston portrays in whatever play she is in, she is always a standout.

Along with Mrs. Fowlston, Gertrude Chappel, always popular with Peninsula audiences, deserves the highest of accolades. As the harrassed sister-in-law of Regina Giddens, she suffered more indignities than should be allowed. In her best scene, she had others, but this one stands out, she slowly became inebriated on stage from too much wine and went from a light and happy mood to one of abject despair. Her transformation was electric.

Roy Baxter didn't show up until somewhere in the second act, but when he got there he made up for lost time. We had, until opening night, only seen Mr. Baxter in comedy. He is better suited for drama. As Horace Giddens, the ailing husband of Regina, he took over the play with every line that he uttered. His subtleties in portraying a dying man were appreciated. Actors so often overdo death scenes. Not Mr. Baxter. He acted superbly and died beautifully.

Bob Lotz and Bob Lynn, as Benjamin and Oscar Hubbard, must be either real stinkers offstage or have a great deal of talent. They seemed so natural in their roles. Never once stepping out of character even in some of the more, let us say "overwritten," scenes, they deserve all the praise that will be afforded them.

Dianne Hall as Alexandra Giddens, the daughter of Horace and Regina, is a good, young, capable actress. At times when young people appear on stage, it seems that they feel that movement and projection are all that is necessary to put their roles across to audiences. Miss Hall obviously doesn't feel that way. Portraying a poignant young flower of the South—and if that isn't a thankless part we'll put in with you—she held her own and sometimes surpassed more experienced actors opposite her.

Sean Tracy as Leo Hubbard, the son of Birdie and Oscar, would be far better if he would put a little poise into his stage figure. Perhaps it was Mr. Tracy or perhaps it was us, but we didn't understand his character. We give him "A" for effort however, for we could understand his lines. He projects well.

Roger Poole, as industrialist William Marshall, and Belle Morris as the "faithful servant, Addie", also Bill Johnson as the other "faithful servant, Cal," (there are at least two faithful servants in every play about the South), were superb in their small, yet meaningful roles.

As for the plot of the play, it's nothing that you haven't seen before. The struggle for good over evil, virtue over sin, or stocks, stocks, who's got the stocks. But as written by Lillian Hellman, some of the lines are terrific. The end of the second act should give you a pang somewhere in the vicinity of your solar plexus.

The set by Bob Evans deserves special credit. So much attention was paid to every small detail. The costumes by his mother, Judy, were as close to period as anyone could get. Except for a glass of wine that aged on the mantel for one week, the stage was managed expertly by John Riling.

The credit for this production should go mainly to Mike Keller, the director. With all of that talent on one stage it must have been terribly difficult to restrain it. No Southern accents were too thick; no dramatic scenes overdone. There was a minimum loss of lines, not so common on opening nights, and no props to hinder smooth movement by any of the players.

An excellent job by Mr. Keller and he should be proud of the play and the cast. We urge you to see "The Little Foxes" running through mid-December.

LINES FROM THE STUDIO

When the rains came last Sunday, we had our first taste of what they can do to dampen attendance. A pity, too, for we couldn't help contrasting the soggy weather outside with the candle-lit tables, gaily-colored chairs and rich aroma of roast beef inside. Those who came were further rewarded by magnificent drama as "The Little Foxes" emerged from the hands of a highly skilled cast. If we may make a suggestion: — a rainy night or any Sunday night at this time of year will often enable you to get last-minute reservations for dinner and show at The Studio which we think you will enjoy more than listening to the downpour or T.V. commercials. Dress to suit the weather, of course. $5.50 is the tariff for dinner & show or $2.75 for the show alone Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Marcia Hovick Superb At Circle

by Duke Everts

Hedda Gabler, a play in three acts by Henrik Ibsen, is the current attraction at the Circle Theatre. Playing to a house less than one-third full the night we saw this production were Marcia Gambrell Hovick as Hedda Gabler Tesman, C. Winter Van Horn as George Tesman, Betty Hughes as Juliane Tesman, Mary Thomas as Thea Tysing Elvsted, Robert Heater as Judge Brack, Jean McGill as Berta and Bill Withers as Eilert Lovborg.

Perhaps we don't know as much about serious period drama as we would like to think we do, for Hedda has survived for over half a century. In our opinion, theatre is meant to entertain, also it should make money to continue its existence. But when plays are produced that do neither, we can't see the reason for producing them.

We are positive that Director Norman McPhee knows his business and that there are many people on the Community Theatre board who are extremely talented, but we would like to know one thing once and for all — who chooses the plays at the Circle Theatre?

It would appear that a very good production is alternated with one not so good. That would give an average of sorts. But the average seems to be low on the theatrical scale. A well known critic once made the statement that one shouldn't over-estimate the intelligence of the public. Give them what they want. Perhaps he was right. Hedda Gabler will not play to full houses.

If a tree falls in a forest and there is no one to hear it, is there any sound? If a play is produced and there is no one to see it, is it a production? There are so many well-written plays to be done. WHY NOT DO THEM? People have been known to "stubborn" themselves out of a job. "It has been said by other theatre owners that "We're gonna give 'em culture whether they like it or not." Don't you believe it!

Enough for knocking the play. We are, however, not going to knock any of the people who take part in these productions. We are sure their hearts are in their acting and they do it strictly for the outlet, or for experience.

The play is miscast. That is not the fault of the actors. A director does the casting. All the principals, except the judge, are too old for their parts. This is most evident in the Circle Theatre where one is almost in the midst of the performers. On a proscenium stage this factor probably would not be noticeable.

Marcia Hovick, however, was superb. She and Robert Heater, who portrayed Judge Brack, also Jean McGill as the maid, Berta, all gave stellar performances. Mrs. Hovick, in particular, is cut out for serious drama. She could probably raise the roof with something in the order of "Mourning Becomes Electra." But as a 26-year-old shrew something is lost in her performance. Why waste such good talent? None of the actors are compensated financially for their efforts. At least let them be aesthetically rewarded.

Nevertheless, go see Hedda Gabler anyway, if only to keep a very fine theatre going. Moreover, you may be entertained. I hope so.

Festival Of Renaissance Music

by Douglas Taylor

The Monterey Peninsula Choral Society opened its season with presentations on November 5 and 6 at the First Methodist Church in Pacific Grove.

Combined with the magnificent organ, played by Ludwig Altman, also brass choirs, the concerts inaugurated the first Peninsula Festival of Renaissance Music, a unique idea conceived and directed by John Gosling.

The festival started on Saturday with an illuminating lecture by Robert Commanday, music editor and critic of the San Francisco Chronicle. He has a pleasant casual manner and set the atmosphere for the concerts to follow. He gave tape recorded excerpts of the music to be heard, also showed pictures of Venice and paintings on a small screen.

This discourse, "Venice and the Late Renaissance" was warmly applauded by an appreciative audience.

Ludwig Altman opened the Saturday evening concert with "Messa degli Apostoli" by Frescobaldi played in his own impeccable style. Next the "Sanctus" and "Gloria" from Hassler's "Mass II" was performed in perfect pitch by the chorus. Gabrieli's "Sonata Sopra Sancta Maria" followed played by two brass choirs, a very outstanding contribution to the festival.

To close the first half of the program, "Sonata Sopra Sancta Maria" by Monteverdi was given by the soprano and brass choirs. After the intermission came further works by Gabrieli including the American premiere of "Aria della Battaglia" — truly magnificent. Also there was music by Banchieri for the organ and the brass choir.

The Sunday concert commenced in a deluge of rain outside the church, adding a kind of hydraulic accompaniment to the performance throughout its exciting program which opened with Ludwig Altman playing variations on "I Call to Thee, Lord Jesus Christ" by Sweetlinck. Then the brass choir performed music by Franck and accompanied two choirs in Psalm Eight by Schutz with the organ giving sonorous support.

The "Magnificat" by Monteverdi was probably the most important work of the festival. It was highly inspiring and uplifting, concluding the first part of the program.

More Gabrieli followed culminating in his "In Ecclesiis," an ecstatic experience as performed by two choirs, solo voices, brass choir and organ and brought to a close this remarkable and distinguished Festival of Renaissance Music.

To sum up — the chorus sang in perfect harmony and beautifully in tune. The brass choir provided a wealth of gorgeous sound with Ludwig Altman delightfully efficient at the organ. The whole was dominated by Maestro John Gosling whose sympathetic and highly competent musicianship and direction made this first festival indeed memorable.

We are grateful to the many people behind the scenes who contributed to this great success and look forward to a second festival next year.

Onions! Onions! Onions!

Donnan and Lee Jeffers rushed to leave Carmel when the departure date of their freighter, taking them to Ireland for four years, was pushed forward by several days. Then, in Stockton, they sat for three days in 100-degree temperatures and, much to their dismay, discovered their luggage had been stowed in the hold under 40,000 pounds of onions. The shipping company gave them money to buy sufficient clothes in Los Angeles to see them through the trip. This was helpful—but then—they found that the onions were not to be unloaded until the ship reached Amsterdam — and they were getting off at Rotterdam.

Canada by Freighter

Recently Herb Blanks and Gene Scheffer took some time off from their business, Ailing House, and with their wives took one of the Norwegian line freighters up the coast. They made stops at Portland, Seattle, Vancouver, New Westminster and Vancouver Island. Their tour through a pulp mill at Harmac was fascinating. Although the fall colors abounded, they saw them at their best as they drove up Howe Sound to Squamish. It's a trip they recommend.

Australian Jaunt

"Traveling alone certainly affords one the opportunity to meet far more people, and I've done just that," writes Toby Edson from Australia. His message comes from the country's capital, Canberra, "a most beautiful pre-planned city. From here it's on to Melbourne, Tasmania, and hopefully Adelaide before returning to Sydney. I've decided to stay here in Australia for about five months and will take one of the jobs I've already had offered."

Annette Zang Thorn has been in town this week to work on the election and the Carmel School Trust. She moved to Ross in September with Jaime when her daughter, Annette, went off to Smith College as a freshman. Letters from Annette tell of lots of college "mixers," both social and intellectual, with Eastern men's colleges.

Elkinton's Thai Party

At an interesting party at Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Elkinton's home on October 29, students from Thailand, now at Monterey Peninsula College, prepared varied and delicious main dishes, while the Elkintons, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Leonard J. Fletcher of Carmel Manor, provided salads and deserts.

Also invited were two young men now nearing the completion of their studies in the Thai language at the Defense Language Institute. They are Jon Phiffs and John Drayne. By virtue of their training, the entire student group at the party could enjoy bilingual sociability.

The students participating were Suphani Sophaphani and Nongiak Tanthasindhu, who is living in Carmel with Mrs. E. S. Hopkins, and Anukul Jintarax, Praesert Maekwatana, Apijai Ngaosupharnvongs, and Somchai Suwanmanon.

Fellowship For Hank

The Ohio Corporation, 162 years ago, bought a large, chunk of land to build a great university and a great town around it. Naturally, they named the town Athens and the university, Ohio, for the name of their state.

This is the University of Ohio that Henry Hoey, the youngest son of Mrs. Fred Godwin, and Hank's wife, Barbara, are finding a fascinating place in which to work and study.

Hank, who is a graduate of Carmel High School, received his bachelor's degree at San Jose State College and a master's degree at the University of Oregon. He now has a teaching fellowship to work for a doctorate in clinical psychology. Barbara will study for her master's in history.

Lotte Marcus at UCSC

Lotte Marcus, the mother of three young children, is once again a student. She is enrolled as a senior at the University of California at Santa Cruz hoping to earn her degree by next September. And then, if things continue to go as well as they have, she just may turn into a perpetual student.

She compares the physical layout of the college to that of a children's park with all its shining newness. "The buildings still have price tags on them."

The two days Lotte is away from home, she plans her departures around 7:30 in the morning—"driving by the brussels sprouts and artichoke patches, following celery trucks on a beautiful road." She carries two courses of five credits each, returning to her children and writer husband, Alan, about 5 p.m.

Return To Ben Lomond

Wendy (Weissmuller) Penniman who has spent many happy summers at Ben Lomond, is now a busy bride, refurbishing, with her husband Warren, the cottage in the Santa Cruz Mountains which was a wedding gift from her father. As her mother and grandmother before her—Mrs. Jon Konigshofer (Beryl Scott) of Carmel and Mrs. Arthur Scott—Wendy cherishes the beauty of running streams, laurel and redwoods, a friendly and simple mode of life.

Rather than await the return of the Konigshofers from a five months' trip in Europe for a formal wedding, Wendy and Warren were married in June in Nevada.

The bride, whose father is John Weissmuller of Chicago, attended school in Southern California and Chateau d'Oex in Switzerland. She is the sister of John Weissmuller Jr.

Her husband, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Penniman Sr. of Santa Cruz, attended Cabrillo College and is with the Watsonville office of Penniman Title Company of Santa Cruz. He has a sister, Cynthia, and two brothers, Mark and Edward.

Friends of the Konigshofers are enjoying their accounts of the travels abroad, particularly of their stay on the lovely island of Corfu and the cruises to other Greek Islands in the Ionian Sea.

PRESENTATION OF WAGNER OPERAS AT MPC

Richard Wagner's four "Ring" operas—commonly known under the collective title of "The Ring of the Nibelung"—will be interpreted in a dramatic musical presentation by Jack F. Wolfram on Monday at 8:30 p.m. in the Monterey Peninsula College music hall.

Wolfram, former vice president of General Motors Corporation and general manager of its Oldsmobile Division, encouraged musical participation among his employees, writing special arrangements of operas for performance by a 125-member employee group.

After his retirement from industry, he became intrigued with Wagner's "Ring"—its story, meaning and beauty. Free tickets are available at the college.

DISCUSSING MOVIE PLOT

Film Sequences Shot In Carmel

by Allman Cook

The accompanying pictures are of Orson Durand filming Mel Temple of Pacific Grove during a sequence of "Angele." He is also shown discussing the plot with his star, Kristin Rey of Pebble Beach. Peyton Bryan of Carmel Valley is co-starring with Kristin. Others in the cast are Denby Goodman and Anne Brown.

A few years ago, Mr. Durand retired from his profession as an English teacher which included eleven years at Columbia University in New York City and one year at Monterey Peninsula College. A short time after retiring he found he just had to keep busy. The "nouveau vague" idea of film production caught his fancy. These are shorts and one hour features, different from the usual Hollywood product, as they explore more of the abstract concepts and attitudes. This type of film is now being shown in over 600 movie houses in the U. S. and throughout Europe.

Having taught literature, knowing about story plots, lines, dialogue and character relations, he was attracted to trying his hand as a film producer and with some success. His films include "Flower Beneath the Foot," and "The Long Way Home" which have been shown in many of the nation's theatres plus "Dark Intruder" which has not been released as yet — and now "Angele." These are all-sound color movies.

"Angele" is nearing completion. It needs only a few more scenes before the camera, then it goes to Hollywood laboratories for the sound track.

Filmed in color at Fisherman's Wharf in Monterey, on Cannery Row, at Point Lobos and on Carmel streets, the feature-length movie should prove of particular interest to local residents.

I do think Dr. Durand could contribute more uplifting themes than "Angele's." His star, Kristin, is cast as a fisherman's daughter who is considered by everyone who knows her to be a sweet innocent child. In reality, however, she is a bad seed. Ultimately she meets with a tragic end.

FILMING SEQUENCE

FILM AT MPC

"Suddenly Last Summer," starring Elizabeth Taylor, Katherine Hepburn and the late Montgomery Clift, will be the November 18 offering in Monterey Peninsula College's fall film series, "An Approach to Tragedy."

The "adult" film will be shown at 7:30 p.m. in the MPC Music Hall. Single tickets—75 cents for adults, 50 cents for MPC student body card holders—are available only by mail or at the music hall door on the evening of the performance. Mail requests should be addressed to the MPC community services office.

ART SHOW AND PARENTS' DAY

by Gardner Meloy

An exciting two days are planned in honor of the parents of Stevenson boys this coming weekend. In addition to the traditional teacher-parent discussions, there will be an art exhibit of some 150 paintings by artists and a special program of the choir that will include a student trio. A featured speaker at the vespers service on Sunday evening, John Boit Morse, a local artist, will complete the two-day event.

A public showing of the $100,000 art collection will be held on Sunday afternoon from 2-5 p.m. in the school gym. Tours of the campus will be available with student guides for those wishing to see the art show and such buildings as the nationally honored Erdman Memorial Chapel.

Six galleries are participating in the show, three from Carmel and three from San Francisco, under the supervision of R.L.S. Artist-in-Residence Richard Pearsall.

The oldest local gallery, the non-profit Carmel Art Association, will send paintings by John Boit Morse, Barbara West, John and Patricia Cunningham, Wayne Dye, Doris Rohr, Kathryn Aurner, Cush Walker and some ten other painters of note.

The Laky Galleries will exhibit ten paintings of local, European and Chinese artists. In addition to Zyta Laky, this group will include Emile Lehner, Giorgio Valenzin, William H. Clapp, Jean-Pierre Jolifie-Cronin, Proferio Grossi, George DeGroat, John O'Shea and Yeh-Jau Liu.

The newest art gallery in Carmel, Skaalegaard's Square Rigger, will show both oils and water colors of the noted sailing-ship painter, Hans Skaalegaard.

The Pomeroy Gallery in Jackson Square, San Francisco, will show work by Donti, Vacica, Ghilion Green, Jacques Vouyssow, Milozan Stanic, and the popular Geoffrey Lewis. The next opening at Pomeroy will be a one-woman show of Elizabeth Charlston, whose work will also be at RLS.

The small, but unique Hunter Gallery, located in the Women's City Club in San Francisco, will show early Western painters T. Hill and William Keith, a painting of Carmel Valley by Julius Rix, and a Lincoln portrait by a then-slave named Douglass. Of particular interest will be an early painting of fishing operations on Cannery Row before 1910.

Cosponsoring, with the Stevenson school, is the Winblad Gallery of San Francisco under the direction of Dr. and Mrs. Fritz Winblad. Featured will be a painting "The Lighthouse Keeper" by Robert Brackman, plus selections by Thomas Leighton, Marjory Lester, Kali, Dorothy Spangler, Theron Kelley of Maine, Myrtle Auerback and the interesting young artist, William Giberson.

The choir, under the direction of Robert Peterson, will sing several folk numbers. A student trio of Fred Manning and Mike Popovich on guitar and Bruce Wileman on banjo will sing "Stick of Bamboo." This performance will be given on Saturday at 2 p.m. for the parents, and will be followed by an address by the school's president and headmaster, Robert U. Ricklefs, entitled "State of the School."

Others assisting in the program include student artists Dan Giustina and Pete Stremmel, the Sponsors Club and Mrs. Ann Dick, also members of the Letterman's Club who will act as ushers and guides.

On Sunday evening in the Erdman Memorial Chapel, Mr. Morse will speak at 6:30 p.m. Both parents and the public are invited to join with the students in listening to this special program that will end the two-day weekend of culture and education for the Stevenson School.

Information about the program, or any other activities of the school, can always be obtained by telephoning 624-1257.

The Sur Coast

By ELIZABETH FULLER JONES

ARTIST MOVES TO BIG SUR

One of the original Herrick Twins has come to Big Sur to enjoy its beauty and to devote herself to the happy and absorbing task of being a painter. The vivacious, diminutive, energetic artist, Margaret (Maggie) Sherman may be found any day either at the Big Sur Bazaar (which she is jointly operating with its owner, Mrs. Marge Johnson) or at one of her favorite painting spots along the coast. The day we interviewed Mrs. Sherman in the patio of the bazaar we found her surrounded by her palette knife, paintings, scenes of the coast and open sea, the Santa Lucia Mountains, Big Sur Valley, views of the Monterey Bay, tulips in the low country of Holland, waterfront houses in Italy, Parisian girls, birds and spring bouquets.

Maggie Sherman is the identical twin sister of Martha Locke of Santa Monica, and as a team, known as "The Herrick Twins," they presented programs of "bits, hits and skits" in their own original manner. In the twins' series, Maggie appeared as Margo and her sister as Marsha. Marsha (Martha Locke), a soprano has had many leading roles in opera, musical comedy and little theater and is currently with the Santa Monica Opera Company. Margo (Maggi Sherman) is a pianist-composer with many published works to her credit. The twins first appeared on stage at the age of four. At nine they were singing and playing their own original pieces. Through the years the twins continued to develop their talents along their individual lines.

Maggie Sherman (as an artist she signs her works M. Sherman) also developed an interest in painting and continued to improve this during the years of her marriage.

After the recent death of her husband, and a period of adjustment travelling and painting in the desert and the Owens Valley, Margaret Sherman decided to make a complete change in her physical surroundings and come to Big Sur to devote herself to a full-time job of serious painting.

NEW RESIDENTS

Pete and Maggie Allsup are new residents in Big Sur. Their son, John Virgil, attends Carmel Middle School and daughters, Margo Joe and Sandra Lynn, are enrolled at Captain Cooper School. The Allsups lived for many years in the San Joaquin Valley. For 14 years they were associated with the Buckhorn Cafe in Bakersfield. Mr. Allsup is the new chef at Redwood Lodge and Mrs. Allsup is hostess at this long established dining and lodging place on Highway One.

EDWARDO TIRELLO

Friends and neighbors of Edwardo Tirello in Big Sur were shocked and saddened by his death in Rhode Island recently. Mr. Tirello was killed by an automobile driven by Miss Doris Duke while he was in process of opening an iron entrance gate at the Duke estate.

When not travelling throughout the world, Edwardo Tirello spent time at his home in Big Sur. Only a week before his death he was here when returning from a trip to Hawaii and enroute to New Jersey and Rhode Island.

For ten years Mr. Tirello had been a friend and advisor to Miss Duke. He was in charge of the interior decorating and landscape designing and maintenance of the tobacco heiress' estates situated in various parts of the world. It was his talent that went into the design and development of the Duke Gardens near Somerville, New Jersey.

At the time of his death, Edwardo Tirello had gone with Miss Duke to her Newport residence, "Rough Point," to help re-open the mansion that had been closed for the past 20 years.

During the period of the filming of "The Sandpiper" along the Sur Coast, Tirello was associated with the staff of MGM Productions. He also was the interior decorator for the Martin Ransohoff residence in Big Sur.

REAL ESTATE OFFICE

A new real estate office has opened in Big Sur. The Carmel Realty Company has opened a branch office on Highway One at the south end of Redwood Lodge. William "Bill" Pentony, a resident of Big Sur, is manager of the new office, which is open daily.

PARTY PLANS . . .

By Phyllis Jervey

OUTDOOR - INDOOR COOKERY

Now that autumn has arrived we can bring cookouts and campouts inside, or vice versa, depending on the weather. That's what the national Girl Scout organization teaches its members, aged from 7 to 17. Well balanced meals that are fun to cook and eat have the flexibility to move indoors and be cooked over the hearth, or in the kitchen, and be served in front of an open fireplace or just cozily in a small apartment. Of course, whenever possible campfire cookery is done outdoors under open skies—sunny, foggy or starlit.

November is the month for Girl Scout calendars, a troop money-earning project. These colorful "date books" for 1967 are already on sale, but not door-to-door as with April's annual cookies. Calendars are available by contacting the Monterey Bay Girl Scout Council, 404 El Estero, Monterey.

This brings us to a memorable interview with Mrs. Louise Hatton which PARTY PLANS has just enjoyed. Mrs. Hatton was a director of Girl Scouts for 40 years and was justly awarded a trophy for her great devotion and generosity.

Mrs. Hatton, who really merits the title of longtimer in the Monterey Bay area, loans her acres at Calera Canyon Rancho in Corral de Tierra every summer to the Girl Scouts. This joyful location is known as "Hatton Hollow Day Camp." There the girls learn all the good things a Girl Scout should know, not the least of which is cooking in the open.

The increasingly anticipated annual "Owl Prowl" of the Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society took place recently at Mrs. Hatton's home. After a bird observation stroll, which she led, a box supper brought by members was enjoyed under the spreading trees. Then at dusk the "Owl Prowl" commenced and the 70 bird watchers were rewarded by sighting a pair of horned owls who hooted approval.

A veteran horsewoman, Mrs. Hatton has ridden all over this area from her place to Pfeiffer's and Tassajara. Nowadays, she finds that driving her jeep is more expedient. Mrs. Hatton collects bottles of every size and color, also miniature pitchers, many of them heirlooms. Five generations of her family have attended the same Washington Union school. To top all of these achievements, Louise Hatton is an expert marks-woman of Annie Oakley caliber.

As for cooking, this accomplished lady prefers simple foods. She used to teach the Girl Scouts how to make breadsticks. First willow sticks were freed from bark and smoothened. A soft dough was made with flour, baking powder, salt and water, then patted into a ball. Next this was rolled into a five-inch long "rope" and wound around the stick. This was toasted over coals and turned slowly to bake through and brown evenly. When the stick was removed, the hole was filled with mashed cooked frijoles. Nowadays, packaged Bisquick is used and wrapped around frankfurters before being cooked on a stick over an open fire. Eaten out of hand these "dogs-in-a-biscuit" are as popular as ever.

But to return to the ins-and-outs of Girl Scout cooking, PARTY PLANS suggests the following easy supper:

CAMPERS'
SURPRISE BUNDLES
with
Skillet Biscuits
Lemon Refresher
Peanut Fingers

Campers' Surprise Bundles
(Serves 4)

Three cups drained, cooked rice; seasoned salt to taste; 1 lb. ground lean beef; 1 envelope, or can, dried onion soup mix, mixed well before using; ¾ cup evaporated milk; 4 tsps. butter or margarine. (Remember that onion soup mix is salty).

Have ready—four 18x12 inch pieces heavy aluminum foil (or use double thickness of lightweight foil). Put about ¾ cup rice in center of each piece. Go lightly on salt at this point. Crumble ¼ lb. beef over each. Pour over each 3 tbsps. undiluted evaporated milk. Dot each with 1 tsp. butter. Bring together 2 short sides of each piece of foil; fold under twice. Then fold up ends to seal tightly. Put bundles right onto gray medium hot coals if cooking in back yard or patio. Bake about 30 minutes. (This food can be cooked in the oven when the party takes place indoors.) Turn bundles over. Bake about 20 minutes more, or until meat is done the way each prefers. Serve in package. For variation, omit rice and use 3 cups cooked instant sliced potatoes, prepared according to package directions. Have a tray of relishes—cherry tomatoes, green onions, pickles, olives, ketchup, mustard as accompaniments and always use paper plates, cups, napkins, indoors and out.

SKILLET BISCUITS

One-fourth cup softened shortening; 2 cups biscuit mix; 2 tsps. sesame seeds; ½ cup evaporated milk; 1/3 cup water. Melt shortening in a 10-inch skillet over coals or burner. Put biscuit mix and sesame seeds into a bowl. Stir in well a mixture of evaporated milk and water. Put in skillet. Spread to about a 6-inch circle. Brown and turn, then brown on other side. With 2 forks, tear dough into pieces and butter while warm. Serves 4-6, depending on appetites.

Lemon Refresher

Combine and mix until light and fluffy 1 qt. cold milk; ½ cup fresh lemon juice; 6 tbsps. sugar; ½ pint vanilla ice cream. Pour into paper cups. Serves 4-6, depending on size of "glasses."

Peanut Fingers

Bake Peanut Delight Cake Mix in 13 x 8 oblong pan. Cut into 24 slender pieces. Ice all over with Peanut Creme Frosting. Roll in chopped peanuts. These disappear fast, especially if Boy Scouts are invited!

Another winner is the following.

Carmel Carefree Sausage
and
Apple Cook-In-or-Out
(Serves 4)

One lb. pre-cooked or ready-to-eat sausage links; 1 large can whole sweet potatoes; 1 can (1 lb. 4-oz.) pie-sliced dehydrated apples, drained; ½ cup dark brown sugar; ½ tsp. ground whole cloves; heavy duty aluminum foil.

Arrange sausage links in a rectangle on double thickness of heavy duty aluminum foil, cut about 18 inches long. Place sweet potatoes inside rectangle. Mix brown sugar and cloves and sprinkle over apple slices. Arrange these in rows on top of sweet potatoes. Wrap tightly in foil. Heat on grill over coals about 30 minutes or bake in 350 F. oven.

CHILDREN'S HOME SOCIETY HAS REMARKABLE RECORD

A remarkable record has been established by the Children's Home Society in the area composed of Monterey, Santa Cruz and San Benito counties. At the end of the first eight months of 1966, there were 100 babies in adoptive homes and 92 adoptions already completed by the society, California's only statewide, privately supported, non-profit adoption agency.

There are still many babies looking for homes, and anyone interested in knowing more about adoptions or in becoming a contributing member is urged to call the Monterey office (373-3239) at 444 Pearl Street. There, Mrs. Helen Robinson, case-work supervisor, will be happy to answer inquiries.

Homes cost more today than they did in '63, but it costs less to keep them warm.

Housing, food, clothes and most everything in your cost of living—have gone up in the past three years. But in the same period, there have been five reductions in PG&E gas and electric rates.
So when you turn on PG&E energy for your comfort and convenience today—it costs you less. It's the biggest bargain in your family budget.
rates have dropped five times since '61.

On November 23 there will not be any program (Wednesday before Thanksgiving) On November 24 — Thanksgiving Day Dinner — sign up and make your reservation early, since there will be room for a limited number of persons (Cost $2).

HACIENDA CARMEL
Carmel Valley

In competition with 300 Arthur Murray students from California and other western states, Mrs. Lucille Fowler of Hacienda Carmel won the runner-up first trophy at a regional dance-o-rama in Los Angeles recently. Mrs. Fowler's partner was Dennis Wachs, studio manager in Monterey. Her successful performance climaxed Mrs. Fowler's first entry into dancing competition.

CANTERBURY WOODS
Pacific Grove

On Armistice Day, tomorrow, there will be a special observance at Canterbury Woods honoring all those who were connected with the Armed Forces.

Miss Helen Boyle, resident of Canterbury Woods, had a distinguished visitor on Saturday when Bishop Lyman C. Ogilby, who is one of the youngest bishops of the Episcopal Church in the U. S., came to visit in Pacific Grove. He is Episcopal Bishop of the Philippines and was on his way home from attending a meeting of the House of Bishops in Wheeling, West Virginia. He flew down from San Francisco and stopped to see his former secretary and other friends at Canterbury Woods.

Miss Boyle came to Canterbury Woods directly from the Philippines after spending 37 years there. She is a teacher by profession but the last eight years in the islands she spent as secretary in the office of the Episcopal Church in Manila.

FOREST HILL MANOR
Pacific Grove

A direct contradiction to the idea that a retirement home means a narrow way of life is Forest Hill Manor. Aside from the 25 or more "native sons and daughters" there are representatives from East Coast, West Coast and some from foreign countries such as England, Switzerland, Canada and Mexico.

Members have served in many occupations and professions—education, finance, health services, science, fine arts, religion, business administration and politics.

A goodly number, probably 75 percent of the residents, have traveled extensively about the world. Many have had overseas experiences in the military or civilian occupations.

Ten or more religious faiths have followers at the Manor. There is a variety of political loyalties.

Forest Hill Manor thus gives evidence that wide interests and contacts are available within its walls.

PINPOINT PROFILES
RAY LOVETT

When we talked to Ray Lovett, who came up from newsboy to general manager, thence to secretary-treasurer of Peninsula Newspapers Incorporated, we found out his main hobby was fishing.

"Not just fishing," he said, "but fishing for steelhead—the kind of fish that give you a fight."

He and his wife, Margaret, drive all the way to Oregon where they fish along the Rogue River every Fall.

For a vacation that's different let us suggest a trip (with a trusted guide, of course) down the Rogue River in Oregon; starting at Grants Pass and ending at Gold Beach—120 miles of thrills! It takes four days—since one stops along the way to fish in choice spots. The river folk offer comfortable accomodations at night in cabins on the bank of the river.

Ray Lovett was born in Oakland and began working for the Palo Alto Times (circulation 900) at the age of ten, as one of three newspaper carrier boys. Except for time out for service in the first World War, he has been with the organization ever since.

He is past president and one of the founders of the California Newspaperboy Foundation. In 1945, after serving on the executive council for many years, he became president of the California Newspaper Publishers Association.

Many community projects received the attention of Ray Lovett. To name a few: president of the Chamber of Commerce, Toastmasters Club, director of the Rotary Club, member of the advisory board of San Jose State College's department of journalism and assistant lecturer in the Stanford journalism department.

In 1919 after he returned from World War I, he met and married his wife, Margaret, who had come to the Times as a bookkkeeper. They have three daughters and "At the last count, 11 grandchildren," Ray smilingly added.

"Margaret has always been there to help me," continued Ray. "I remember the night President Harding died in San Francisco. We immediately got out an extra. Since most of our office help was unavailable, Margaret and I set up the extra and even took the papers out for distribution.

"Election nights were always fascinating. We have lived through quite a number of them."

Ray became concerned with the rehabilitation of prisoners during his years as general manager of the Times, devoting much of his time to the San Quentin print shop and spent ten years on the San Quentin Trade Advisory Council.

He took it upon himself to teach techniques of the printing trade to all of the men who showed interest in learning; even assisted the editor in setting up the format for the first issue of "The San Quentin News."

Having progressed through the mechanical departments, then to circulation manager, advertising manager, business manager and publisher of the Times, thence to general manager and secretary treasurer of Peninsula Newspapers Incorporated, Ray came back after major surgery to help the new general manager in any way he could.

He confessed "You know, when I was forced to leave I never thought I would be able to work again."

The girls in the office jokingly presented him with a title he had never held before. "maintenance engineer", the little wooden sign read. He gained this designation because of his ability to fix anything that needs fixing—even the office plumbing.

A genial man, Ray finally left the paper and came to live at Carmel Valley Manor three years ago. He said, when speaking of the office tomfoolery, "This was a happy way to end my career."

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

The Apostle Paul's declaration, "Ye are not in the flesh, but in the Spirit, if so be that the Spirit of God dwell in you," is the Golden Text of this week's Christian Science Lesson - Sermon titled "Mortals and Immortals." The lesson will be read at all Christian Science services this Sunday.

Related readings from the denominational textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following:

"The manifestation of God through mortals is as light passing through the window-pane. The light and the glass never mingle, but as matter, the glass is less opaque than the walls. The mortal mind through which Truth appears most vividly is that one which has lost much materiality — much error—in order to become a better transparency for Truth. Then, like a cloud melting into thin vapor, it no longer hides the sun."

To Discuss Koran At Church In The Round

Kamil Said, chairman of the Arabic department at the Defense Language Institute, will be the lay speaker this Sunday at Carmel's Church in the Round. His talk will deal, primarily, with the law as set down in the Koran, and especially the faiths and practices in Islam that lead to continuous remembrance of God as love, harmony and peace.

The Church in the Round recently became Carmel's only Unitarian-Universalist fellowship, having been granted membership in the National Unitarian-Universalist Association. The association headquarters in Boston and has over 400 such member fellowships throughout the country.

Reverend Karel V. Vit has been minister to Church in the Round since its inception here in 1962.

The church holds Sunday morning services at 11:02 a.m. in the Nix Studio at Mission and Eighth.

Art News . . .

During the month of November, the Carmel Art Association will feature a one-man show of the latest works of Edward Norton Ward.

Ward has been a resident of the Monterey Peninsula since 1959 coming to this area from Southern California. Born in Los Angeles in 1928, he was attracted to painting while attending UCLA. After graduating in 1952, he has continually tried to capture the California scene on canvas. He has ranged from the fishing villages and farms of Northern California to the barren eastern Sierra slopes.

Edward Norton Ward is a member of the Carmel Art Association and the Society of Western Artists.

The works on display at The Laky Galleries are an unusual offering to the collector. Painted, or sketched, by some 40 artists in the span of over 100 years, these works, while widely diversified, do represent important things in common. The painters are mostly French, with a sprinkling of Swiss, Belgian, Spanish and other talent. They all are works by competent professionals. They range in tone from those unmistakably rooted in early nineteenth century romanticism to twentieth century abstract surrealism. All of them can justly claim to be honest works by honorable artists.

Another characteristic they have in common is impeccable pedigree; all the painters represented in this exhibit are documented; all of them are included in the listings of the Benezit, which is considered the biographical bible for all serious art collectors. Most of the artists, besides, have been described in essays and monographs (ask the curator of the Laky Galleries for the pertinent bibliography).

The works shown at this exhibit come from the Finaly Collection in Paris, which in itself is both a recommendation and a guarantee. Priced from $75 to $2,500, these paintings offer The Laky Galleries' clientele a rare opportunity to select from a wide variety of solid European masters at prices of yesteryear.

Carmel Foundation Town House is showing creative stitchery by Mrs. John (Alice) Robertson of Carmel and pottery and sculpture by Mrs. Cora Foley of Orland during the month of November.

Mrs. Foley studied art and ceramics at Chico State College and has had her work shown in Orland, Stockton and Carmel. Her pottery vases and pitchers are replicas of those used in the summer palace during the Ching Dynasty.

Mrs. Robertson first became interested in stitchery as a creative craft during a trip to Europe five years ago, when she saw it displayed with the fine arts. Except for some of the workshops provided by the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art Association, she has had no formal art training.

Mrs. Robertson considers herself fortunate that her husband, Dr. John Robertson, also enjoys crafts and assists with the framing and mounting of her creations. She has received awards at the Monterey County Fair, the Religious Art Show at the Church of the Wayfarer and the annual show of the Livermore Art Association.

The Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art is presenting oils and watercolors by Ada Garfinkle through November 30.

Since graduating cum laude from San Francisco State College in 1959, this accomplished Marin County artist has continued her education at the College of Marin, Richmond Art Center, and the UC Workshop of Visual Perception. The impressive list of collections, publications, and exhibitions in which she is represented attest to a continual growth of her development.

Among the 21 awards and honors that she holds are a Civic Purchase Award from the "Preview '65" of the North Bay Affiliated Art Groups, and a first prize in Mixed Media in the "Kingsley 40th Annual" at the Crocker Art Gallery, Sacramento.

This painter, who believes ". . . that an artist moves forward and backward in time, and perceptually in every direction in space," has had seven one-man shows; hung in a two-man show at the Lucien Labaudt Gallery in San Francisco; and has represented the East Bay Area in traveling exhibitions in the United States and Japan. She also is included in two publications, "La Revue Moderne," Paris (March, 1966) and Book IV "Prize Winning Watercolors."

Her MPMA exhibition is comprised of paintings done in the last three years and may be seen in the association's gallery on Lincoln Street from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays and 2 to 5 p.m. on Saturday.

Between November 14 and December 4, a one-man show of paintings by Ned Pankin will be on exhibit at the Zantman Art Galleries on Sixth Avenue between Dolores and San Carlos Streets. The artist, who was born in Brooklyn, began his career in high school then studied at the Art Student's League in New York where he was influenced by Yasuo Kuniyoski. He studied drawing with Arnold Blanch and landscape painting with Jean Liberte.

After arriving in California in 1951, Ned Pankin found what his artistic sense had been seeking in the state's trees, coves and wildflowers. His paintings grow out of nature much as the subjects he so sensitively handles. He is a master of delicacy in an age attuned to blatancy.

The Zantman galleries are open daily, including Sunday, from 11 a.m. - 5 p.m.

Mrs. Huldschinsky

Word has been received of the death of Mrs. Marianne Huldschinsky on November 3 in Santa Barbara. She made her home on Lasuen Drive until about three years ago when she moved to Santa Barbara.

Mrs. Huldschinsky was born in Munich, Germany.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Lorilotte Clark of Carmel and Mrs. Ralph Rea (Julianna) Strange of Santa Barbara; three sons, Ernest Wiedmann of Santa Barbara, Piet Wiedmann of San Mateo, and Andrej Wiedmann of Phoenix, Arizona; and 11 grandchildren, including Christopher Clark of Carmel.

Catholic services were held in Santa Barbara.

In a California newspaper I recently read this account of American ingenuity. A Southern California nightclub operator, bound hand and foot by robbers, dialed the local Information number—with his nose! Said he tried "0" for Operator but couldn't quite make it. "Information" sent police in a hurry to the man who had found help fast with Direct Nose Dialing.

Here's an important phone number to remember: "Zenith 1-2000." To report a traffic accident or any other highway emergency, in an unincorporated area and on freeways, dial Operator and ask for "Zenith 1-2000." This number, which is listed in the front of your phone book, will put you in touch with the nearest California Highway Patrol office and should be used only to report accidents in unincorporated areas and on most freeways.

From A Librarian's Notebook

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg, City Librarian

We have the one-volume edition of the report of the Warren Commission on the assassination of President Kennedy and another gift copy is being processed now. We shall probably need both copies as the spate of new books dealing with the report is published and purchased. This is an important publishing event for it comes at the time when the people's right to know is being discussed on all sides. This week we have THE OSWALD AFFAIR by Leo Sauvage. Subtitle of the book is AN EXAMINATION OF THE CONTRADICTIONS AND OMISSIONS OF THE WARREN REPORT. The second book this week is Mark Lane's RUSH TO JUDGMENT: A CRITIQUE OF THE WARREN COMMISSION'S INQUIRY . . . There will be much that is alike in these books but they deserve a reading.

Another book of which we will have two copies is Sterling North's RACCOONS ARE THE BRIGHTEST PEOPLE. Laudatory reviews have given us a waiting list before the book could be processed so a county library copy will be here to cover borrowers with only a county card. Raccoon lovers of this area will enjoy the book with its many photographs and all of us could profit by the author's accounts of the other wild animals he and his friends have befriended and taken into their homes to protect and love.

At long last we have a county copy of INCIDENT AT EXETER by John Fuller. This "flying saucer" business is providing material for a lot of books, most of them extremely interesting. If you saw as many of these as the librarians do, books that is, you would believe in unidentified flying objects and be completely convinced that they are from outer space and that the people who pilot them are both intelligent and friendly. So there! !

An eyewitness account of life in a closed society is RED CHINA TODAY by Hugo Portisch. The author is a European journalist who attended the University of Missouri School of Journalism but this book was written in German and later translated. The picture he gives us of life in China today is interesting and pushes us another step forward in our journey to understanding.

A fascinating woman was Dorothy, Princess of Courland, Countess of Perigord, Duchess of Dino, Duchess of Tallyrand, and Duchess of Sagan. She was beautiful too, and TALLYRAND'S LAST DUCHESS is the story of her life as told by Francoise de Bernardy. There are many notes, indicated by a variety of symbols, which always seems a bit on the ridiculous side in a book directed toward the casual reader. Ignore them if you wish, and read the book merely for the life story of this important woman in French and German history.

POWER AND IMPOTENCE, THE FAILURE OF AMERICA'S FOREIGN POLICY is the title of a book by Edmund Stillman and William Pfaff, both of whom have earlier books on economics and public affairs. They regard the challenge to America as both a myth and a challenge and they suggest a new foreign policy which they believe will help to restore political balance in the world.

We have on order Greene's Viet Nam, but it is not here yet. Meanwhile we have ready this week VIET NAM WITNESS, 1953-66, by Bernard Fall, who is a professor of international relations at Howard University. This is another book which we hope will give us an added push toward an understanding of our role in the world of today and of the peoples with whom we are playing out our strange dance of internationalism.

At Martha's Vineyard there lives a man who writes a column for the Vineyard Gazette. The man's name is Joseph Chase Allen. Selections from his column have been made into a book entitled THE WHEELHOUSE LOAFER. Here are the salty yarns which have made Allen famous the area around. Good reading and a relief to the funny bone from all the super-serious nonfiction being done these days.

ORDEAL BY FIRE is the real story of the flight through Germany during the last great war by Anne Wahle and her three children. She was an American living in Dresden when the war hit with all its fury. Her account of the trip to a tiny Austrian mountain village is frightful, made even more so because the fighter bombers were our fighter bombers. At the time she bore no thoughts of anger. Her own cousin was in the American Air Force and might be piloting the very bomber which was dropping its cargo of bombs upon her and her family. She says it seemed like a giant game with the people up above trying to stay up and the people down on the earth trying to hide from them. Reading this small book makes plain what war is today, and it isn't nice.

Fatal Accident

John Alexander and his wife, Elizabeth, well-known Carmel residents for some 20 years, were killed instantly Saturday when their auto left the highway and rolled down an enbankment north of Santa Cruz.

Perceptive and discriminating in his love of literature, Mr. Alexander's wit and warmth pervaded the friendships made during the couple's years here. To this was added his wife's keen appreciation of music, based on her career as a concert pianist and, later, as a sympathetic accompanist.

Mr. Alexander, born in Saginaw, Michigan, on April 19, 1889, spent his early years in Oregon. While serving as a military officer in World War I in Europe, he met his wife, who was a member of the YMCA entertainment unit there. After the war, he entered business in San Francisco, later moved to the Peninsula where he was for several years manager of Holman's book department. For some time before his death, Mr. Alexander was associated with The Wells' Book Store in Carmel. He was a member of the Old Capital Club of Monterey and a trustee of the Harrison Memorial Library.

Mrs. Alexander, the daughter of a Presbyterian minister, was born in Dravosburg, Pennsylvania, on February 28, 1893. She was an honorary member of Casa Abrego Club of Monterey.

She leaves a sister, Miss Eleanor Waddell of San Francisco, and two brothers, Archibald M. and John S. Waddell.

Inurnment took place in the family plot at Mt. Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael. Friends wishing to honor the memory of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander may do so my contributing to the charities of their choice.

Colonel Irvine

Funeral services for Colonel William Harris Irvine (USA ret), who died Sunday at Fort Ord Hospital, were held yesterday at the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea, Pacific Grove, with Colonel John W. Fritts of Fort Ord officiating.

A resident of Carmel for the past 10 years, Colonel Irvine was born October 10, 1889, in Greenville, South Carolina. He was stationed at the Presidio of Monterey in 1942 and later made his home in Pacific Grove.

He attended Davidson College, South Carolina, Virginia Polytechnic College and the University of Lyon, France. A veteran of World Wars I and II, Colonel Irvine entered the Army in 1917 and held the Silver Star and ten Bronze Stars for his service in both wars. He served in France and Germany during World War I and in both the Atlantic and Pacific theatres during World War II.

He was a member of the Huguenot Society of South Carolina and of St. Mary's-by-the-Sea Episcopal Church of Pacific Grove.

Colonel Irvine leaves his wife, Miriam, of Carmel; three daughters, Mrs. Frank Allen of Glen Ellyn, Illinois, Mrs. Douglas B. Guthe of Mare Island and Mrs. Douglas A. Williams of Charleston, South Carolina; a sister, Mrs. Milton G. Smith of Spartanburg, South Carolina; a brother, Dickson H. Irvine of Miami, Florida; and seven grandchildren.

Friends wishing to make contributions in memory of Colonel Irvine may do so to the building fund of St. Mary's-by-the-Sea Church, Pacific Grove.

Private inurnment will take place in Spring Wood Cemetery, Greenville, South Carolina. The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

G. H. Blackman

G. Horton Blackman, a resident of Carmel for the past 20 years, was born August 17, 1885, in St. Louis, Missouri. He died unexpectedly last Friday morning. After being stricken at his home on Monte Verde street near Tenth Avenue he was taken immediately in the Red Cross ambulance operated by the Carmel Volunteer Fire Department to the Community Hospital, where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

Mr. Blackman retired to Carmel with his wife, Ada, in 1946 from the Blackman-Nutzell Machine Co. of St. Louis where he served as a former president.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by a son, James Horton Blackman, a professor at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill; two daughters, Mrs. Katherine Haven of Nashville, Tennessee; and Mrs. Thomas (Ada) Howells of Walla Walla, Washington; ten grandchildren; and two great-grandchildren.

Private services were held Monday at the Little Chapel by the Sea with the Reverend Lloyd E. Johnston of All Saints' Episcopal Church officiating. Inurnment was at the El Carmelo Cemetery in Pacific Grove.

Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Walter Blascoe

Private services have been held in the Paul Funeral Chapel for Walter Paul Blascoe, a Carmel resident for the past eight years, who died Sunday at his home on Hatton Fields Mesa.

A naturalized citizen of the United States, he was born August 19, 1901, in Berlin, Germany. Mr. Blascoe was a former resident of New York City, where he was the owner-operator of a sporting goods business from 1946 until he retired in 1959.

He is survived by his wife, Toni G. Glascoe of Carmel; a daughter, Mrs. Rolf N. Zernik of San Francisco; and three grandchildren.

Contributions in memory of Mr. Blascoe are preferred to the Central Mission Trails Heart Association, Box 191, Monterey.

Mrs. Richardson

Word has been received of the death of Mrs. Mildred Boice Richardson in San Francisco on November 2. She was the mother of William Carlton Richardson of Piedmont and the sister of the late Henry Boice and Mary Robinson, both of Hanford.

The Reverend Charles Harris officiated at private family services on November 4 in Truman's Chapel, Oakland.

CANNY COUNSEL by Sagacious Sal

Dear Sal

I seem to have a problem and that is not enough time to do everything I want to.

What do you suggest?

C. F.

Dear C. F.,

Your writing shows one who has a wide range of aptitudes, from the highly creative to the analytical. Your intellectual curiosity is so broad, you could not possibly find time to do everything you want to do.

I would recommend that you take stock of your interests, and use your time to pursue activities vital to your entire personality, as much as possible.

As an example, for a hobby, I would suggest golf to you. The beauty of the golf course, the sociability of the game, and the challenge of the sport seem to be requisites that fit into many of your personality needs.

Dear Sal,

I would like to be a successful salesman. Can you help me in this endeavor.

E.R.

Dear E.R.,

If I ever wanted to hire a salesman, you'd be it! Your writing shows you to be imaginative, diplomatic, determined, and enterprising. All this, much more, and a sense of humor too!

One facet of your personality gives me pause for reflection. You need the stimulation of an intellectual challenge, and have a literary bent. Working with some phase of selling in the newspaper or book publishing world would fit you to a "t", I would say. Let me know how things work out.

LAST LECTURE ON SINO-SOVIET RELATIONS

Wednesday evening, the last lecture in "The Marriage of the Bear and the Dragon" series on Sino-Soviet relations will be presented at Monterey Peninsula College. She will discuss life in Red China based on observations on a 4,000-mile trip in this country last year. Admission will be by ticket only, cost $1. The program will be at 8 p.m. in the MPC Music Hall.

TRAVEL SECTION

CONVOY TO CAMBODIA

Reviewing my many interesting vacations, I have no doubt whatever that the really most interesting and exciting was traveling as a civilian by military convoy from Saigon to Angkor. The French were then in control of Indo-China, or rather they were fighting to maintain it.

From a French banker friend in Peking where I was living, I secured a letter of introduction to his brother, a high ranking Army officer in Saigon. I had an earnest desire to see the fabulous Angkor-Wat but I knew all the usual methods of civilian transportation had been disrupted in that area. When I met the officer after my arrival in Saigon, I found him to be most kind and helpful. He was able to secure permission for me to join a convoy, although he warned me, very seriously, that they were sometimes ambushed, attacked, and burnt. Did I want to risk it? I gave a convinced but nervously breathless "yes!"

So with a feeling of high adventure I waited outside the Cathedral in Saigon one morning at 4 a.m. Then I saw the dimly lighted convoy approaching. It consisted of armed Annamite and French "poilus" with their officers, mounted machine guns, trucks and cars. After presenting my credentials I was assigned a seat in a truck. We moved cautiously but peacefully through the lovely countryside and the many villages arriving at Siemreap, the nearest village to Angkor, towards evening. There I registered at an excellent French hotel and arranged to see "the ruins" in the morning.

The several hundred incredibly beautiful temples of carved stone built by Kings of the Khmer Empire which flourished as early as the 9th century are now but the mysterious relics of that vanished Khmer race, and had been buried in the jungle for centuries until their discovery in the 1900's. This magnificent discovery became legendary. The great stone carvings filled the temples, courtyards and walls, sometimes stretching for what seemed miles. There were tremendous serpent lined stairways and bridges. Everywhere one was aware of the ageless enigmatic half-smile on the faces of the gods and their consorts, the court dancers, the "apsaras"—a Khmer equivalent of the Mona Lisa expression.

The jungle still had to be fought from again obliterating the temples, and this the French Government employes continuously worked at, cutting back the banyan trees with their serpentine roots and branches, also the tall palms, and heavy tropical undergrowth and foliage. Occasionally with their handlers, one came upon elephants assisting in the work. Visiting monks in their saffron yellow robes were glimpsed providing a bright note of contrast to the gray stonework and the bright green jungle verdure.

A dream city that has fascinated scholars, historians, artists and writers who, having studied it in depth, still remain ignorant about the disappearance of this cultured race—the Khmers.

Was it worth risking travelling through hostile territory by armed convoy? Again—a convinced and still breathless—"YES!"

NEW FEATURE

The Pine Cone's Travel Section makes its first appearance in today's issue. A much traveled resident, Arthur Porter, is in charge of this new feature and has written about one of his travel experiences—Convoy to Cambodia. Next week he will tell about another of his trips then open a competition on the subject of My Most Interesting Trip. Prizes will be awarded to the five best stories chosen from those submitted by Pine Cone readers and published each week for 15 weeks. Readers are also asked to send in items for a column—Travel Tips. Questions on travel are also requested. These will be answered by Peninsula travel agents who have expressed willingness to do so.

WAREHOUSE GROUP PLAYS AT SCHOOL ASSEMBLY

The Warehouse 6-3 presented its show at Carmel Middle School during an assembly today.

This entertaining group, led by banjo player Gary Ryan, plays just about everything, and has a great deal of fun doing it. Backing the loud banjo are Dave Tobiasen, Carmel piano player and foot-stomper, and Al Ring, head drum basher and trombone blower.

Just released and available locally is their first album entitled "In Answer to a Diminishing Number of Requests."

"All 5th, 6th, 7th and 8th grade students—720 in all—participated in this assembly which was purposely picked and planned to enhance the Dixieland unit being presented by the music department," H. F. Chapple, Carmel Middle School assistant principal, said.

Investment Firm Open House For Three New Officers

Turrell and Dahl, investment counsel of San Francisco and Carmel, announces that Louis deK. Belden, Paul A. Violich and W. Kurt Hauser have joined the firm as officers and that the firm name has been changed to Turrell, Dahl and Belden.

All three men have come from Brundage, Story and Rose of New York, the fifth largest investment counsel organization in the United States and the largest that is exclusively engaged in investment counsel. There they did both security analysis and portfolio management.

Belden is a graduate of Harvard University and holds an M.B.A. from the Stanford Graduate School of Business. He was with the Bank of New York for one year and has been with Brundage, Story and Rose for the past 14 years, the last five as a partner.

Both Violich and Hauser have A. B. and M.B.A. degrees from Stanford and have worked for Brundage, Story and Rose for the past four years.

The officers of the firm now are: Herbert N. Turrell, Jr., chairman of the board; Louis deK. Belden, president; Arthur L. Dahl, vice president and treasurer; Richard W. Turrell, Paul A. Violich and W. Kurt Hauser, vice presidents; Lawrence Ames, Jr., secretary.

As of January 1, 1967, the principal office in San Francisco will move from the International Building to the new Wells Fargo Building.

The Carmel office of the firm, under the direction of Arthur L. Dahl, is now at its new location in Wall Street Lane off Sixth between San Carlos and Dolores. There an open house will be held Tuesday from 2 to 6 p.m. The three new officers, as well as Herbert N. Turrell, Jr. and Richard W. Turrell, will be down from San Francisco for the event. Friends of the firm are invited to attend.

Seventeen years in the travel business with only one change, our new trademark shown above. It signifies the old world around us which hundreds of our clients travel in modern comfort each year. The result of careful, personal planning by Bob McGinnis and his staff.

NOW BOB McGINNIS IS A MEMBER OF ASTA, THE AMERICAN SOCIETY OF TRAVEL AGENTS, GIVING ADDED STATURE TO THE ALREADY ESTABLISHED MONTEREY PENINSULA BUSINESS FIRM.

TRAVEL, and most important, the planning of a trip can be fun because of your anticipation of an adventure. FOR THIS REASON WE THOUGHT YOU WOULD ENJOY OUR TEN COMMANDMENTS OF TRAVEL.

I. Thou shalt not expect to find things as thou hast them at home—for thou hast left thy home to find things different.
II. Thou shalt not take anything too seriously—for a carefree mind is the beginning of a fine vacation.
III. Thou shalt not let the other tourist get on thy nerves—for thou art paying good money to have a good time.
IV. Remember thy passport so that thou knowest where it is at all times—for a man without a passport is a man without a country.
V. Remember to take only one-half the clothes you think you need—and twice the amount of money.
VI. Remember if we were expected to stay in one place, we would have been created with roots.
VII. Thou shalt not worry. He that worrieth hath no pleasure—for things are seldom fatal.
IX. Thou shalt not make thyself too obviously American—when in Rome do somewhat as the Romans do.
X. Remember thou are a guest in every land—and he that treateth his host with respect shall be treated as an honored guest.

Council Employs Stage Manager

PLANNING DIRECTOR

The recommendation of the Carmel Planning Commission that John J. Riling Jr. be employed as the city's director of planning at a salary of $754 a month did not meet with the council's immediate approval, even though approved by Mayor Grant and Councilman Whittlesey, the council's committee on administration.

"I don't know this man even by sight," declared Mr. Norberg and moved for an executive session. Councilman Herbert Blanks seconded this motion. The council consulted with Mr. Riling and Planning Commission Chairman Dorothy Von Meier during a 45-minute secret session, then announced that the appointment of a replacement for Floyd Adams will be postponed one month "for study."

Approved was the employment of Robert Updike as a captain in the Carmel Volunteer Fire Department. Previously there has been no paid captain in the department and, it was stated, such a position may not be necessary following the hiring of a new fire chief. In the meantime, a paid captain, on duty at the fire station at night, is deemed necessary. The arrangement is approved by the volunteer members, also paid firemen, Fire Commissioner Whittlesey assured the council. He also stated that Updike may not be demoted but suggested that he "shows great promise of future development towards promotion."

GIRL SCOUTS

Whether or not the Carmel Girl Scouts shall have use of the gymnasium of Sunset Center was referred to a joint committee of the council and Sunset Commission following a report from the latter body stating that allocation of this portion of the premises, rent free for 40 years, to the Girl Scouts represented lost city income amounting to an excess of $100,000 at the current 10 cents a square foot rental rate, especially in view of a contemplated conversion of the gymnasium into a small theater. The Sunset Commission urged the council to "diligently pursue the quartering of the Girl Scouts in the Boy Scout House." In respect to this suggestion, Mayor Grant said "the Girl Scouts are not interested in sharing." The Sunset arrangement was proposed in order for the city to acquire the former Girl Scout House site for an extension to the Harrison Memorial Library.

P.G. & E. PROBLEM

A petition signed by 35 residents in the vicinity of the P.G. & E. substation at Junipero and Second requested that the council take action to abate "a public nuisance" created by expansion of the utility company's facilities. Reginald Machado, one of the signers, told the council that the P.G. & E. was operating as a non-conforming use in the residence zone and had made improvements without obtaining use permits. He asked that the city attorney be authorized to clarify this situation, then that the council take action to eliminate non-conformances "before we bring before you a stronger way." Mr. Machado said the P.G. & E. plans to replace the present five generators on the site with three larger ones. He also objected to "trapeze-like" poles in the substation and "overloaded fans" and the danger of "fires over our heads."

Mrs. Edna Askew supported Mr. Machado and stated that sparks from generators had caused her tenants to call for fire protection. The matter was referred to City Attorney William Burleigh.

An ordinance relieving the city council from inspecting tree-trimming requests was sent back to the city attorney for elucidation in consultation with Councilman Blanks, a professional forester. Ordinances adopted last night control business district display cases, and landscaping and maintenance of planting in the same zone. Other adopted ordinances facilitate the city's fiscal and accounting procedures; the making of budget changes by resolution instead of passage of an ordinance; and the continuance of the forestry commission for two years.

Tragic Accident

News of the deaths of Colonel Bruce McDaniel and his wife, Louise, was telephoned to friends here last weekend from Redlands.

Mrs. McDaniel was killed instantly when the car in which she was riding was hit. The tragic accident occurred Saturday evening as Colonel and Mrs. McDaniel, with a friend, were entering a highway from a restaurant driveway. Colonel McDaniel died early Sunday morning. The friend was also killed.

Colonel and Mrs. McDaniel had been coming to Carmel for two months each summer for 15 years. Numbered among their large group of devoted friends here were some that they had made in Shanghai, China, when Colonel McDaniel was attached as agriculture attache to the Consulate General's staff and others they had known in Israel when he was a member of the U. S. Embassy staff.

Mrs. McDaniel was a concert singer before her marriage. The McDaniels met when she needed a pianist for a performance.

Colonel McDaniels, who was an attorney before joining the foreign service, took art lessons each summer with John Cunningham.

The couple had no children.

Now There Shall Be Men

Miss Portia Mansfield has arrived from her summer home in Steamboat Springs, Colorado, and reports the first year of the Perry-Mansfield Boys' Camp was a success.

Each year, for 52 years, Charlotte Perry and Portia Mansfield had opened their dance and drama camp at Steamboat Springs. Then, last January, they signed it over, as a gift, to Stephens College. Before you could say, "Don't," which was Miss Perry's one word of advice, Miss Mansfield and Helen Smith, a very special and important administrator of the original camp, had organized their boys' camp.

Now to their host of female friends all over the world, they will add some men.

Miss Perry, fondly known as "Kingo" to her many camp friends, keeps busy teaching drama at Santa Catalina School and playing the violin in the Monterey County Symphony orchestra.

"LET US KNOW WHEN YOU FIND SOMETHING GOOD"

This is the theme song of bargain hunters. (Aren't we all?) And we have found it! Not just one house but two! Both with ocean views and both being sacrificed for personal reasons by owners anxious to sell.

One, in a prime location in Carmel, has four bedrooms, three baths, separate dining room, an exotic garden and other choice features too numerous to mention. For a quick cash sale only $47,500.

The other, in beautiful Carmel Riviera, is a modern three bedroom; two ultra, ultra baths; separate dining room; all built-in kitchen; and a view beyond description with mere words. $55,000 plus actual cost of recent landscaping with only $12,000 down. The balance at 6%. "Something good, eh?"

Stock Market Notes

By Hugh Hannon

One of the most interesting bits of financial news recently is that France didn't draw any U. S. gold last month—the first time in more than a year and a half. One of the biggest worries of financial experts has been the constant loss of U. S. gold reserves.

The easiest way to fight recession is to lower interest rates. Cheaper money means more borrowers, which means more business profits, which means more jobs. However, if you have high interest rates in Europe and lower interest rates here, money will flow to those higher interest rates. This year as everyone knows interest rates have been going up in America and they have been going down in France. So now money is flowing into America, which means gold is flowing into our reserves.

France has been countering this loss of gold by changing the dollars, left in France by American tourists and military, into gold and taking this gold back to France, thus depleting our low gold reserves.

We can't lower interest rates to fight recession in this country if those lower interest rates result in even more of our dollars (and thus our gold) going abroad for higher interest. So if this announcement is true that France has stopped drawing on our gold reserve, either because they have enough gold for their banking system now, or because they have run out of dollars to convert to gold, then we can lower interest rates without losing gold. Lower interest rates would certainly be good news to the California housing industry.

Another bit of optimism: Mr. Bache, the head of the second largest brokerage firm, said in an interview recently, "The good industries are very attractive, . . . They are wonderful opportunities to buy. The economy is going to continue to be good . . . the better managed companies are going to continue to increase their earnings. Because you are going to have a constantly rising wage, workers will have more money to spend. So you'll have a pretty full economy."

And so stocks will go up . . . we hope.

Old Capitol Site

The project is to be a "residential park" (planned community) of 1,080 grouped dwellings iwth a concentrate of housing to conserve 66% of the land for greenways and recreation areas. Its population should approximate Carmel's, about 3,500 people.

Town houses, terrace houses, attached houses and patio houses are planned catering to median income families. The Village Center, with its public square, is the focus of the development. It includes restaurants, small specialty shops, a service station, a 150-unit motor hotel, 100,000 square feet of office space and a community center suitable for community activities, religious services and a cinema. This approximates the size of the present Carmel business area.

The atmosphere is to be similar to small European towns with buildings of white plaster and old Monterey in style. Fourteen acres are to be used for roads and exposed parking, 105 acres are to be conserved as greenways and recreation areas. This results in a total of 159 acres with a density of 6.8 units per acre including the Village Center.

It is obvious that very careful consideration has been given to every possibility of conserving the pines and large oaks, grassy meadows, ravines, views of unique beauty and the general character and feeling of the Peninsula. We on this peninsula are fortunate to have men of such foresight making plans for our population growth.

It is expected that private developers will carry out these plans which should start in two to three years. Completion will probably take ten to 15 years. On today's cost basis it would involve about $30,000,000.

100 feet," he stated. In Mexican waters, black sea bass, weighing up to 100 pounds are a real challenge to divers.

Catalina is another favored vacation spot for skin divers. The water is clear, warm—and filled with lobsters!

Around Monterey, the most popular sport fish is the ling cod. Rock fish and kelp fish come next.

One of the biggest hazards to skin diving is the ocean surf. Often, the diver will start out in comparative calm but by the time he is ready to come in, the surf may be dangerous. Once while battling 15-foot breakers, for a five day period, in a rescue operation for an overturned General Electrical experimental duck boat, McCurdy had several ribs broken by rough seas.

When asked if he had sighted any of the famous "gold vessels" reportedly sunk off the Seventeen Mile Drive, he said, "Since 1950 I have dived in that area a number of times and haven't found one vessel. But the tide is so treacherous," he added, "it could pound anything to pieces."

McCurdy makes his own spear guns, much of his own gear, and his boots. When he first started scuba diving, he and a friend made all their own gear using, among other things, a coffee can and old tire tubes. They didn't use wet suits at the time, and almost "froze" in the water. Now divers wear three suits of underwear under a wet suit, stay warm, and don't get wet!

The Monterey Sun Fish Club helped to organize the Pacific Grove Marine Rescue patrol — a group of volunteers who make a rescue effort when people are drowning, or have drowned.

Many divers take up skin diving for purposes of undersea photography. Others like sport fishing. Some just like sight-seeing. The ocean is a fascinating, new frontier. But unfortunately, McCurdy stated, about 95 per cent of the people who take up scuba diving give it up because of lack of companionship.

The purpose of the Monterey Sun Fish Club is to promote skin diving. Any earnest, enthusiastic diver is welcome to join the organization on a temporary basis—and if proving himself a real enthusiast—on a permanent basis. The Seven Seas Skin Diving Center contains ready information pertaining to this organization.

Mrs. McCurdy, a busy mother of five children, varies her schedule with a job in a local grocery store. She loves spoiling her family and sharing experiences with them. But she does not scuba dive—yet!

While growing up, McCurdy's father served in the Navy and the family lived all over the United States, also in China and the Phillipines.

Before joining the California Highway Patrol in 1955, McCurdy was an aircraft engine mechanic, also spent one year as a time motion expert in the San Francisco Bay area. He moved to Carmel, changing his line of work, because "Monterey has one of the finest scuba diving areas in the country and Carmel is the prettiest city I've ever seen in my life."

Someday Bob McCurdy plans to become a writer.

Letter To Editor

DRIFTWOOD

Editor,
Carmel Pine Cone

I would like to take this opportunity to congratulate you and the staff for the splendid issue of the Pine Cone of October 27 and the stories of Carmel over the past 50 years.

As a San Francisco youth, I was a frequent visitor with my parents to the Monterey Peninsula many years ago. Our usual stays were at Pacific Grove as there was very little at Carmel, 1900-1908, which could be termed so much as a village.

Pebble Beach was a wilderness with but one inhabitant, a Chinese curio seller, at whose stand all horsedrawn vehicles stopped.

The Pine Cone brought to mind many familiar names of old to which I might add William Greer Harrison, I believe a native of Belfast and during his business years in San Francisco acted as general manager of the Royal Insurance Co. of London.

Mr. Harrison, a friend of my father, was an ardent athletic leader in San Francisco and for many years, headed the Olympic Club and was instrumental in having me become a junior member. Shortly after the great disaster which struck the city in 1906, Mr. Harrison managed to get the club started on a rebuilding plan and retired to Carmel.

On one cold foggy day, my father and I met Mr. Harrison on the beach as he was gathering driftwood as a hobby. In this respect, I have told many of my friends in San Francisco that he was so good at his hobby that there has never been any driftwood left on the beach to this day. Perhaps a little exaggerated.

Again with my compliments for a good job.

Sincerely,
Malcolm W. Steel

NEW ART MUSEUM

Directors,
Carmel Museum of Art
Gentlemen:

Yours is an excellent idea to establish a museum in Carmel to present and preserve the cultural heritage of the Monterey Peninsula. I understand you would show the works of the original art colony that existed here from the early part of the twentieth century through the mid-thirties.

The heritage of our peninsula is beginning to be realized and now we should consider its potential as a major cultural center. The establishment of such a museum could be a motivating force toward more progressive cooperation and presentation of the present cultural, artistic environment.

Sincerely,
Allman J. Cook
